President's Message

We had a good February meeting at the shop discussing and tasting Grenache wines while sampling some delicious tapas. There were several new members and it was a fun interactive meeting. We also tested wines to see if they had completed Malo-lactic Fermentation. I hope everyone enjoyed the new format of the meeting where members present and pass around examples of the themed wine. I would like everyone to try to bring an example of the wine we will be discussing each month. This month we will be discussing and tasting Petit Verdot in preparation for the Carpinteria tasting. Members who cannot attend the tasting will not be left out and those who are going will have an educated palate for the event. Petit Verdot is usually blended in the Bordeaux style, so if you can't find a single varietal, don't worry and pick up a blend. The food theme is: "Grilled" or something that pairs well with Petit Verdot. The topic of the month will be Fining. We will be discussing the different types of fining and how to do bench trials.

Derby Day is coming up soon and we are still looking for volunteers to host the event. Please contact me at jkswank@gmail.com if you are interested in being one of the hosts. It is a fun way to for fellow members who are new to wine making to see established vineyards and home wineries as well as spend time tasting wine while wearing festive hats. I brought my hat back from The Travers Horse Race in Saratoga Springs, NY so I'm ready.

In the Vineyard and Winery

In the Winery: Hopefully most of you have completed Malo-Lactic Fermentation (MLF). I have one wine that is particularly slow, but it is progressing. Make sure that your air locks are clean and are topped up with sulfite solution. It is also a good time to cold stabilize and do fining trials on your white wines.

In the Vineyard: Hopefully everyone has completed pruning. I know some people are starting to see bud break. I like to spray sulfur on the new shoots when they are about 6-8 inches and a couple weeks later spray with Neem oil or Stylet oil to minimize the potential powdery mildew.

Jennifer Swank

2015 President, Cellarmasters of Los Angeles

Cellarmasters Pour for Charity in South Pasadena

Cellarmasters were asked to pour some of our wines by the Italian Catholic Federation at South Pasadena’s Holy Family Church on February 7th. Christina Shaw asked us to return after the success we had at the same event last year. The event is a Italian themed dinner with all proceeds going to a portfolio of charities such as Ronald McDonald House and several local groups.

It was flattering to find out that people were asking if we were coming back again. Once the dinner was announced, pre-sales were double over 2014 levels. While we are waiting for the final figures, I observed that all the tables were filled and very active as people visited the five wine stations throughout the parish hall.

Who was there? Old Oak Cellars was represented by Dave and Nancy. They poured some of their commercial and also some home rosé port. Jim Vitale was pouring some of his backyard Thompson Seedless and a selection of decent Italian whites that retail under $5 to prove a point that some “cheap” wines are also good values. He also had a Pizzuli Pinot Grigio from former Cel-larmaster Cosimo Pizzuli on the table.

The Cellarmasters table was crowded. Not only were Mike and Anne there, but there were Gregg and Madeline Smith, Jennifer and Rich Swank and Verne Tjark. A full table armed with lots of SwankSmith wines, Keystone wines and Verne’s sangiovese from White Hawk. Gregg brought some sample bottles of several Cab Sauv experiments - mostly for us. Throw in a small 5 gallon barrel of chardonnay and we were probably the busiest table of the night. Christina and her sister Gina poured at a table of commercial reds. Another counter was on hand with a local Italian import.

In addition to the pasta, sausage, salad and cannoli, history was on the menu. Stuart Byles was invited to present his Powerpoint on LA area winemaking and promote his book “Los Angeles Wines”. I heard from one of the organizers that three-quarters of the room was paying attention during Stuart’s talk. Afterwards, Stuart sold almost all of the dozen or so books that he had brought with him. Several bottles of wine were put into the raffle prizes. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves despite the surprise rain we were getting that afternoon and evening.

There will be a wrap up party in the next month or so for those of us who participated in the event. It is rumored to be the first planned meeting for the 2016 event. They may have to move it to a larger venue if we prove to be more popular than before. I guess they liked the wine at a dollar an ounce.

My thanks to the Cellarmasters: Jennifer and Rich; Gregg and Madeline; Dave, Nancy and Alie; Jim and Dale; Verne; Stuart and, most of all, Anne. Thanks to the ICF for inviting us. Let's do it again next year.

INGREDIENTS

1 large artichoke (or canned artichoke hearts)

2 oz. butter

1 small onion, finely chopped

1 garlic clove, finely chopped

4 oz. rice (Bomba, Valencia or Arborio preferred)

1 1/2 cups hot chicken stock (or veggie)

1 cup dry white wine

2 oz. grated fresh Parmesan cheese

5 oz. Manchego cheese, cut into 1/2" cubes

3-4 tablespoon fine corn meal

olive oil, for frying

salt and ground black pepper

fresh flat leaf parsley, to garnish

Remove the stalks, leaves and choke to leave just the heart of the artichoke. Chop the heart finely.

Melt the butter in a pan and gently fry the onion and garlic for 5 minutes with the chopped raw artichoke hearts until softened. If using canned artichoke hearts, add them after the onions are cooked.

Stir in the rice and cook for about 1 minute.

Keeping the heat fairly high, gradually add the stock and wine, stirring occasionally until all the liquid has been absorbed and the rice is cooked - this should take about 20 minutes. Season with salt and pepper, then stir in the Parmesan cheese. Transfer the mixture to a bowl. Leave to cool, then cover and chill for at least 2 hours.

Spoon a heaping tablespoon of the mixture into the palm of one hand, flatten slightly, and place a piece of diced cheese in the center. Shape the rice around the cheese to make a small ball. Flatten slightly, then roll in the corn meal, shaking off any excess.

Repeat with the remaining mixture to make about 12 cakes.

Shallow fry the rice cakes in hot olive oil, flipping once until they are crisp and golden brown. Drain on paper towels and serve hot, garnished with flat leaf parsley.

The Guide to Petit Verdot Wine from Winefolly.com

Petit Verdot along with Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Malbec and Cabernet Franc is one of the five varietals used in blending Bordeaux wine. Petit Verdot has small berries with thick skins and natural acidity. Petit Verdot has high tannins, dark deep reddish-purple color, concentrated fruit flavor and spicy character.

Petit Verdot: Wine Profile
Pronunciation: Peh-Tee Ver-Doh

FRUIT: Blackberry, Black Cherry, Black Plum

OTHER: Violet, Lavender, Vanilla, Earth, Smoke, Spice, Cigar Box, Molasses

OAK: Yes, Long oak aging in new barrels

TANNIN: High (+)

ACIDITY: Moderate

COMMON SYNONYMS & REGIONAL NAMES Petit Verdot Noir,

Verdot

GROWN IN: France, Argentina, Australia, Chile, Italy, Portugal and Spain. Washington State and California

make wines that are 100% Petit Verdot. Hendry Ranch and Pahlmeyer are known for 100% Petit Verdot wines from the Napa Valley. Trinchero Family Vineyards, Ballentine Vineyards and St.

Supery are other well-known producers.

Viticulture

Petit Verdot is sensitive to water stress and ripens later than the other Bordeaux varietals. It is usually harvested last, up to a couple weeks after Cabernet Sauvignon and a week or two after Shiraz in Australia. Petit Verdot grows best in well-drained, least fertile soils. Petit Verdot is difficult to ripen in Bordeaux and sometimes does not make it into the blend. In warmer climates, the grapes are able to mature and single varietal wines are being made. Grapes grow well planted in northern and eastern exposures that have a long growing season with hot days and cool nights. They benefit from cool nights so the grapes can conserve their acids and avoid over respiration.

Winemaking

Due to the high levels of anthocyanins in the berry's thick skins, Petit Verdot wines tend to have a dense, inky, violet-black appearance. There are high levels of tannins due to the small berries and their high ratio of skin and seeds to juice. The wines are usually aged for many years in new oak barrels.

Food Pairing

The spice and tannin in Petit Verdot makes it a perfect pairing for protein and fat. Rich, robust meat dishes, grilled steak, spicy pork, veal, lamb and all types of game and sausage, spicy foods and aged cheeses like Stilton go well with Petit Verdot.
